Mary's birthday is coming. Her uncle called to tell her that he would send some chickens to her as a present. Mary was very glad to hear that because she liked chickens and eggs very much. "I'll keep the chickens for eggs," she thought.

Then the chickens arrived on her birthday. They were put in a box. Mary carried the box to the garden, but it was so heavy. She dropped the box onto the ground and it broke. All the chickens went out and ran here and there. Mary spent hours trying to find them that morning.

A few days later, her uncle came. He asked Mary, "Where are the chickens? Do you like them?"

"Of course, though I dropped them and had some trouble finding them. Anyway, I caught ten of them." Mary said.

"That's very interesting. But I only sent you six." Her uncle said with a laugh.
